Our Services

Mold Engineering Database System

STIHL Inc. partnered with Method Automation to modernize its mold procurement and engineering workflows. Replacing an outdated MS Access database, the new system is a scalable, user-friendly platform that centralizes tool development, transfers, and updates while integrating seamlessly with SAP.

Key features include structured screens, role-based access, Gantt-based scheduling, cost tracking, and lifecycle management—dramatically reducing manual effort and accelerating mold delivery to the plant floor.

STIHL®

What Is STIHL?

STIHL is a global leader in outdoor power equipment, with manufacturing operations in multiple countries and a distribution network spanning over 160 nations. As one of the largest and most trusted names in the industry, STIHL produces millions of units annually and maintains a strong presence in both professional and consumer markets.

Why Choose MAS?

MAS helped STIHL automate mold engineering, cut manual work, and speed up delivery—all while integrating with SAP and boosting data accuracy. If you're ready to streamline operations and future-proof your workflows, we can build a solution tailored to your business too.
